Papa Joffre Reported To Be Near Death At Hospital

NUTT DEMANDS NYE APOLOGY

'ROUND 'N' 'ROUND

"Why make New Year's resolution?" our Twenty-third street philosopher remarked yesterday. "Conditions don't allow a man to be anything else but good."

* * * *

Speaking of the New Year, however, it looks like it is going to be a busy one—

* * * *

The business depression will end then, so leading industrial leaders have declared.

* * * *

Richmond will have a fine start, so business men tell us. Christmas business this year was far superior to last year.

* * * *

And more members are joining the Christmas club, to assure them that they will have Christmas money.

* * * *

Ernest Emmrich, of the Mechanic's Bank yesterday told us that the Christmas club at his bank is growing stronger every day.

* * * *

Yesterday at the close of business, there were 1428 members of the club, representing $114,000. Last week at this time there were 1232 members representing $99,000.

* * * *

Last year at this time there were 915 members representing $73,000.

* * * *

When the club closes on Jan. 15, it is expected that there will be a record membership, Emmrich stated.

* * * *

And this is only one of the banks in Richmond. Others will report an increase, it was stated.

* * * *

Emmrich stated that the Christmas club idea started in the Carlisle Indian school more than 20 years ago.

* * * *

Since that time it has grown until in Christmas month, 1930, the Christmas Clubs Inc. distributed more than $632,000,000 to club members in the United States.

* * * *

And the distribution of this huge sum of money aided in more ways than one in making Christmas a happy one.

* * * *

Next year this sum will be much larger it is expected—and will help in socking old mar depersion, that mythical figure created by the pessimistic minds of Americans, until he quits in disgust.

Hope Gone For Boy Lost On S. F. Bay

PALO ALTO, Dec. 27—Hope for the safety of Ivan Simpson, 17-year-old Palo Alto high school student missing on San Francisco bay since yesterday noon, was abandoned here today by searchers.

Fred Harvey and Morphy Tyler, circling the district in an airplane of the Palo Alto School of Aviation, discovered the rowboat in which Simpson started out, drifting at the lower end of the bay today at noon.

The boat, which was returned to the Palo Alto yacht harbor by Policemen Bruce Boynton and Delbert Gorman, contained oars and fishing tackle but contained no water. There was mud on the gunwale and the bottom of the boat. It is therefore believed by police that the boat becoming stuck in the mud at low tide, Simpson stepped from the boat to push it into deep water and in so doing lost his balance, and shoved the boat out of his reach. They believe that he was unable to extricate himself from the mud and floundered around till exhausted or was held in the mud until caught by the incoming tide.

Home Bakers To War On Food Racketeers

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Dec. 27. —UP— Oklahoma housewives were asked today to bake their own bread to stop alleged "recketeering in foodstuffs."

Roy Sanford of Enid, member of Governor W. J. Holloway's unemployment commission, made the charge of "racketeering in food" before the meeting of the commission today.

"There is no worse racketeering than to rob people of their food," he said.

A proposal to wage a statewide campaign for home bread baking was taken under advisement.

Sanford said that a carload of flour which costs $600 wholesale and $800 retail would bring $3,300 when baked into loaves of bread sold for five cents each.

Gas Overcomes 9 In Hanford Church

HANFORD, Dec. 27.—UP—Almost half the small congregation of the Seventh Day Adventist church here was overcome by gas fumes during services here today when a gas heater was accidentally left turned on but unlighted.

A man and eight women collapsed almost simultaneously.

The dozen or so other members of the congregation rushed to the open air. They returned and took the stricken ones to a lawn outside. Great difficulty was experienced in reviving the unconscious church members. The Hanford fire department was called, but a pullmotor they tried to use proved out of order. For a while it appeared several of the gas victims might die, but the artificial resperation methods finally employed by physicians and firemen were successful in every case.

Mrs. H. C. Olmstead, wife of the pastor, was taken to a hospital. Her condition was reported as serious.

Among the others overcome were: Mr. and Mrs. J. Frank Brown, Mrs. W. A. Johnston, Mrs. Minor Burrell, Mrs. Dan Winterburg, Mrs. E. C. Bond and Mrs. Newton Sain.

INCREASE IN BUSINESS SEEN

Employment five days a week for more than 400 employes of the Standard Sanitary Manufacturing company was promised in reports from company officials last night who predicted business increases of considerable proportions during 1931.

With approximately 300 employes at the Pacific Enamel works in north Richmond, a subsidiary of the Standard Sanitary concern and some 125 workers at the company's plant in San Pablo steadily employed five days of the week, idications were that other business in the community would enlarge their scope of activity in similar fashion.

The total increase in wages which would result from the enlarged program could not be estimated, but it was assured that the benefit would be plainly visible in the city's business.

During the dull season many of the men at the two plants had not worked full time, and reports of increased activity were received with enthusiasm by employes.

Hovgaard, manager of the north Richmond plant and H. W. Greeger head of the San Pablo unit were optimistic in their outlook for business increases during the ensuing year.

Peaches Browning In Divorce Plea

NEW YORK, Dec. 27. —UP— Divorce proceedings started today in supreme court by Francis "Peaches" Browning against Edward West "Daddy" Browning, claimed the elderly millionaire real estate operator has been showing more than fatherly attention to three girls younger than "Peaches."

Browning will strenuously contest the divorce action, it was indicated when a detective served him a sumomns after waiting three hours in the rain outside his apartment.

Force had to be exerted to compel Browning to take the court order. Incidentally, the detective, Jarry J. O'Connor, signed the affidavit on which "Peaches" hopes to obtain her absolute divorce and substantial alimony.

Detective O'Connor has stipulated for "Peaches" that he has followed Browning's limousine into the lovers' lanes of Central Park and into the proximity of Mount Vernon, where the Mililonaire's alleged clandestine wooing was said to have taken place.

One of the three girls named as co-respondents has been playing "truant" from her classes at the Washington Irving high school here to be with Browning, "Peaches" charges. The girl's name was not revealed but it is said she is younger than "Peaches," who married Browning five years ago when she was 15, only to be legally separated shortly afterward.

NO HOPE IS HELD FOR RECOVERY

PARIS, Dec. 27. — UP— Marshal Joseph Jacques Cesare Joffre was in a critical condition tonight at the hospital of Saint Jean de Dieu, where he underwent an operation for arteris eight days ago.

The urgent operation, which had been kept secret until today, involved the amputation of the right foot of the famous world war leader because of gangrene.

The personal request of Marshal Joffre for silence regarding his condition and the determined attempts of his wife to carry out her husband's desires hindered efforts to keep close check on his battle against death; a battle which he fought as valiantly and as bravely as when, in 1914, the first great victory of the Marne turned back the German army before Paris.

At Point Of Death

His physician said that Joffre was at the point of death. A member of the marshal's household told the United Press that the war leader was suffering greatly and fully realized the seriousness of his condition.

A bulletin issued at 5 p. m. said: "Marshal Joffre's condition is stationary without retrogression. His temperature is 37.2 centigrade (98.96 Fahr.) pulse 75.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27.—UP— Joseph R. Nutt, treasurer of the Republican National Committee, made a public accounting today of campaign expenditures from the special committee account established here in the Commercial National bank and described by Senator Nye, Republican, North Dakota, as a "slush fund."

Nutt demanded that Nye "make a public apology for his unwarranted charge." Nye, chairman of the Senate campaign fund committee, was in Florida today.

The Nutt statement showed the special account to have contained $50,000 instead of $40,000 as the Nye committee had believed. Money Borrowed

With $850 of this borrowed $4,000 Lucas paid for campaign leaflets for use against Senator Norris, Republican, in Nebraska. Nye, Norris and others among the insurgent Republicans, pronounced Lucas' action and described his printed literature as "scurrilous and indefensible."

Nutt's accounting of the fund showed $32,000 to have been spent in eleven disbursements from October 25 to November 3. The largest contribution from the fund was to J. Matt Chilton, National committeeman for Kentucky. He got $6,500.

Four checks aggregating $6,000 were sent to North Carolina for use in the tenth, fifth, seventh and ninth congressional districts. G. L. Tait, chairman of the Maryland State executive committee, was given $4,000. C. Bascom Slemp, Vir-

New Invention May Cut Plane Fire Hazards

PARIS, Dec. 27.—UP—Airplanes no longer need be "flying firetraps" and can in the future be freely constructed of fire-proof wood, according to Dr. M. U. Schoop, famous Swiss scientist.

Doctor Schoop has invented a gun for spraying a thin coating of metal over wood, glass, or celluloid bases. The molten metal coating makes the wood, or celluloid, free from fire danger, protects the wood from the weather and increases its strength.

"My process," he said, "permits the spraying of molten metal like paint on wood, stone, cloth, paper, celluloid or glass. Minor alterations in the apparatus permit the spraying of glass on other bases. The machine looks something like an ordinary hand torch."

Werner Schoop, son of the inventor, is going to the United States in January to supervise the American distribution of the metal sprayer, which has just been patented in the United States. Doctor Schoop has been several times honored by the Franklin Institute, of Philadelphia, for his contributions to science.

West Football Team Wins From East 11

KEZAR STADIUM, San Francisco, Dec. 27.—UP—A field goal from the 19-yard line in the last four minutes of play enabled the West All-Stars to defeat the East All-Stars in a bitterly-waged defensive battle in the sixth annual Shrine charity game before a crowd of 60,000 here today.

Three times turning back the Eastern team inside its 15-yard line in the first three periods the Western eleven staged a fleeting rally in the waning moments of the game which prevented a scoreless tie. Until the final period the East had held a slight edge over the West.

A spectacular punt by Johnny Kitzmiller, Oregon halfback, which was grounded on the East one-yard line by "Ted" Beckett, California's All-American guard, and Frank Wilson, Olympic club end, paved the way for the West's score.

Eddy Baker, Pittsburgh quarterback, playing safety for the East, made no attempt to play the punt, thinking it would roll over the goal line. Instead, the ball bounded straight up after hitting on the one-yard line and was grounded by Beckett and Wilson.

Kitzmiller brought back Hank Bruder's punt 20 yards to the east 20-yard line. Kermit Lange, Baker college (Kansas) fullback, plunged for a yard. A backward pass, Kitzmiller to "Buster" Mills, Oklahoma halfback, gained five yards, and then Kitzmiller knifed through for four yards.

With the ball on the East 19-yard line, fourth down and one yard to go, the West elected to attempt a field goal. Kitzmiller held the ball on the 19-yard line and Mills arched it high over the cross-bar for the three winning points.

The East had three chances to score but lacked the final punch in the face of the West's stuanch defense when pushed back to its goal line. Twice Eastern players seemed loose for touchdowns after receiving forward passes, only to be tackled from behind.

On the last play of the first period, a pass, Eddy Baker to Milt Gantenbeim, Wisconsin end, gained 50 yards and carried the ball to the West 10-yard line. On the second play of the second period, the West stopped this threat when a pass was incomplete over the goal line.

In the third period, Hank Bruder, Northwestern halfback, took an 8-yard pass from Lee Hart, Colgate hall, and ran 40 yards to the West 15-yard line before he was tackled from behind by Dexter Shelley, Texas. The East again was halted, and an attempt failed at a field goal from the 20-yard line by Lee Macaluso, Colgate's All-American fullback.

With stellar line play features the game, neither team was able to gain consistently with its running attack. The East gained 80 yards from running plays, but lost 65. The West gained 148 yards from running plays and lost 21. The East attempted 18 passes, completed six for 140 yards, with ten incomplete and two intercepted. The West attempted 13 passes, completed four for 36 yards, with seven incomplete, and two intercepted.

Beckett and "Botchey" Koch, Baylor, the West's All-American guards, and Tony Siano, Fordham, Eastern center, stood out with their great defensive play. In the last two minutes of play the West blocked a punt by Jack Wheeler, Michigan, and Koch recovered on the East 30-yard line.

Kitzmiller was the greatest ground gainer of the day, gaining 64 yards in the 12 times he carired the ball. Macaluso was the East's star ball carrier, making 53 yards in the 27 times he carried the ball. Bruder, who carried the ball nine times, failed to gain a single time, losing a total of 29 yards.

He, however, got away for a 48-yard gain on a forward pass, which almost gave the East a touchdown.

It was the first victory for the West in three years, the East having won in 1928 and 1929. The series now stands four victories to two in favor of the West.

The Western team was composed of players from the Missouri valley, Southwest and Far West and coached by Dana X. Bible of Nebraska and Percy Locey of the Olympic club, San Francisco.

SPECIAL MEET ON MAIL DRAFT IS CALLED

CHICAGO, Dec. 27.—UP—Official peace between the American association and the major leagues was delayed today when George E. Meuhlbach, president of the Kansas City club demanded a special meeting of association clubs to reconsider the recent mail vote accepting the universal draft.

Five of the association's eight clubs voted favorably on the draft proposal in a mail ballot completed last week. Kansas City, Louisville and Minneapolis voted against acceptance of the draft.

Muehlebach based his protest on the method used in deciding the question.

"The league appointed a committee of three with full authority to act and the committee decided against the draft," he said. "The president then took a hurried mail vote and the decision was reversed.

I think the committee should be heard and that in a matter as important as this a meeting should be ceptance of the draft proposal with President T. J. Hickey already had filed official notice of the acceptance of the draft proposal with Commissioner K. M. Landis. He withdrew the notice when Meuhlebach's protest was received.

Sharkey Bout With Stribling Hopes Fade

ATLANTA, Ga., Dec. 27.— The prospects of a Stribling-Sharkey fight in New York during February or March faded today when "Pa" Stribling, father and manager of W. L. "Young" Stribling, Georgia heavyweight, wired to William F. Carey of Madison Square Garden refusing Carey's offer for this fight.

The refusal was, according to Manager Stribling, based upon the fact that his son was held under contract to Mat Lewis of the Chicago stadium for a February or March bout.

Stribling pointed out that the Chicago management should be referred to by the Sharkey managers.

If Carey's offer had been accepted, it is believed that the winner of the bout would have had a chance to meet Max Schmeling during the summer.

Pro Golfers' Group Withdraws Demand For Cut

CHICAGO, Dec. 27.—The withdrawal of the demand of the Professional Golfers' association's demand for 10 per cent of net tournament proceeds was announced today by Albert R. Gates, business manager of the association. The statement also gave support to Robert Harlow, manager of the professionals' tournament bureau.

The withdrawal of the 10 per cent demand came as a result of many protests from committees of winter open tournaments all over the country.

Gates also pointed out that there was no foundation to rumors that Harlow would be ousted as manager of the tournament bureau and that the tournament might be abolished. Gates stated that tournaments totaling $105,000 have been scheduled.

Odd Fellows Nine To Meet With Giants

A fast battle will be staged at Monarch park this afternoon at 2 o'clock when the Richmond Odd Fellows go into action against the Oakland Giants.

The game will be a regular Inter-County Winter Baseball league affair. Ed Arlett will do the mound work for the linkers today, with Rosano receiving for the lodgemen.

Although both the Odd Fellows and Giants have had their share of bad luck this season, they are both reckoned as strong teams and dangerous opponents, and should offer plenty of excitement to local and Oakland fans today. "Buzz" Arlett, Oakland Coast league star, will umpire today's game.

Notre Dame Stars Defeat Phelan Team 20 To 7

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 27.—UP—Minus the side-line inspiration of Knute Rockne, but showing skill and deceptive maneuvers learned as under-graduates at South Bend, a team of former Irish football stars defeated a West-South eleven coached by Jimmy Phelan of the University of Washington here today by a 20 to 7 score.

Jumping Joe Savoldi, who was dropped from the 1930 Notre Dame club because of marital troubles, furnished the big thrill for the 50,000 spectators that trooped to the charity game.

Savoldi 3 Times

Three times Savoldi got loose and each time he registered a touchdown, accounting for 18 of his eleven's score. Carideo, all-American at Notre Dame this year, added the other two tallies by points after touchdowns.

In the first quarter Savoldi scored from the six yard line and then from the 33 yard line. In the final quarter he traveled 36 yards to another touchdown.

His team-mate Jack Elder, All-American at Notre Dame in 1929, was chief aid to Savoldi. Elder helped take the ball into shooting distance of the goal-line for each of Savoldi's touchdowns.

Despite the fact that Rockne was held in Rochester on doctor's orders and was not permitted to see his men play, they showed considerable more team-work than their West-South opponents.

Saunders Scores

Russell Saunders, former star quarterback at the University of Southern California, was the chief offensive threat of Phelan's team and he scored its lone touchdown with a 15-yard, stab off tackle after runs and forward passes had placed the ball in scoring territory.

Saunders was aided by the work of Welch, former Purdue All-American, and a strong line composed of almost equal numbers of Southern and Western players.

The play of Maffett, formerly of Georgia, was outstanding. He appeared to be the best end on the field.

The former Notre Dame players got off to a flying start in the first quarter. They received the kickoff and in 11 plays had traveled 72 yards for the first touchdown, Savoldi taking the ball across from the six yard line on a reverse. Carideo converted.

Reverse Effective

The second touchdown came a few minutes later when Elder ran 44 yards around his own right end to the West-South 33 yard line and Savoldi then took the ball on a reverse from Mullins and West to a touchdown, Carideo again converted.

Savoldi, Elder and Carideo were then removed from the game and did not come back until the last quarter.

North-South Play At N. Y. Today

NEW YORK, Dec. 27.—UP— The final flutter of the 1930 eastern amateur football season will occur Sunday at Ebbets field, Brooklyn when teams of star players from north and south will meet.

Jack McBride, former Syracuse player, has charge of the northern group. The south mentor is Stumpy Thomason ,who once played at Georgia Tech.

Miller of Penn State, Antos of Boston College, Hansen of Temple, and Marcis of Carnegie Tech are slated to start in the northern backfield. Their rivals are to be Davidson, University of Georgia; Bethea, Florida; Magner, North Carolina; Hackman, Tennessee.

NEW YEAR DAY GRID GAME PLANNED

The American Legion football game to be staged New Year's Day at the Oakland baseball grounds for the benefit of unemployed veterans is certain to draw a large number of football enthusiasts from this city. The contestants will be the Antioch American Legion and the all-star eleven assembled by Ike Krankian. The Antioch squad is being coached by "Dutch" Eels. The game is being played under the auspices of the Emeryville Industrial Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Soccer Club Team To Meet With Ibericos

The Richmond Soccer club eleven will attempt to reach the top of the league when it tangles with the Iberico team of Oakland at Nichol park at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon. The chances of the Richmond boys seem pretty strong, as they have already trounced the Ibericos and have not been defeated during the last four games they have played.

The Richmond athletes will meet this afternoon at 2 o'clock at Longfellow junior high school before going to Nichol park, the scene of the contest.

Grid Leaders Go To N. Y. Meeting

CHICAGO, Dec. 27.—UP—Western directors and football coaches left Chicago today to attend the annual meeting of the American Football Coaches association opening at New York Monday.

The Chicago party included Major John L. Griffith, commissioner of the western conference; Kenneth Wilson, Northwestern athletic director; Paul Schissler, Oregon State College; T. N. Metcalf, Iowa State College; Frank J. Murray, Marquette.

H. W. Hargis, University of Kansas; William Hunter, University of California; T. C. Casper, South Dakota State College; W. H. Laporter, University of Southern California; and Dr. Russell Herrold, Drake University and Glenn Thistlethwaite, University of Wisconsin.

Thistlethwaite will campaign for a rule change abolishing the try for point after touchdown, as suggested by W. A. Alexander of Georgia Tech, president of the organization. The Wisconsin coach introduced a motion favoring the change at the 1929 meeting but his resolution was defeated.

FLORIDA READY FOR BOOMING TOURISTS

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 27.—UP—Despite, and in some cases, because of the current business depression, Florida hotel men and all business men engaged in tourist trade are preparing for a winter season equal and probably greater than the bumper tourist crop of 1929-30.

Hotel men frankly state they expect as many, possibly more visitor sthan last year, but they qualify the statement at the same time by explaining that they do not expect tourists this year to be quite as good spenders.

In deference to the less wealthy tourists hotel owners here and throughout the resort district have reduced rates. The idea is that many prospective visitors, reading of the reduced rates, will decide it no more expensive to spend the winter in sunny Florida than to stay in the north and pay coal, fur coat, and other winter costs.

Travel has been approximately equal to that of last year. Highways are dotted with automobiles bearing out-of-state licenses.

Miami officials report an increase of twenty percent in tourists here during the month of October over the same period last year, giving some credit to a large expanse of new paving recently built in the Old South.

They claim living expeness in Miami are cheaper than in the north, considering elimination of cost of fuel and heavy clothing."

DANCING GIRLS GO WESTERN

PEIPING, Dec. 27.—UP—While the government at Nanking has issued a mandate forbidding western-style dancing in the capital, Peiping's "night life" has been stimulated by the addition of a number of Chinese cabarets, in which Chinese girl partners are available at fixed fees for each dance.

At the same time, Chinese politicians who flocked to Peiping hunting for jobs in the new government are finding recreation in the foreign-style hotels.

For a number of years, Peiping (then Peking) was satisfied with two "night clubs" in which Russian girls acted as partners. These cabarets had their ups and downs, but managed to keep going. Today they are profiting by the renewed activity.

But the latest novelties are the purely Chinese night clubs, of which there are now several. They are owned and operated by Chinese, with Chinese dancing partners and their patrons are mostly Chinese. Managers who learned the business in Shanghai are in charge.

Sing-song girls in Peiping, who have had two bad years before the city again became a sort of capital, are determined to learn western dancing and qualifying as dancing partners. Several of them already have abandoned the old-style methods for the western innovation.

Science's O.K. In Court's Sentence For Crime Urged

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Dec. 27.—UP—Scientific study of each individual convicted of crime should be made by professional psychiatrists, and the findings considered by the court in determining whether probation or incarceration should follow, is a plan advocated by Rodney H. Brandon, director of the State Department of Public Welfare.

Brandon would substitute it for the present system of punishment and paroling criminals.

Brandon declares that society's interest, next to determining the necessity for precaution against the individual by determining his guilt or innocence, is how to treat him after conviction as to best protect itself.

It is Brandon's belief that the best protection will accrue from treatment which will re-establish him in the community in the shortest period of time and on a social basis, and that therefore probation is the first measure to be considered.

The definite objective of probation officers in the supervision of each probationer should be rehabilitation Brandon declares. Persons incarcerated should be carefully calssified. First offenders, he said, should never be associated with chronic offenders.

Every effort would be made to advance men as far as possible during imprisonment by education and vocational training, with definite effort made after release to place the individual in the occupation for which he is best fitted, according to Brandon's plan.

Jesus answered, Verily, verily I say unto thee, Except a man be born of water and of the Spirit, he cannot enter into the Kingdom of God." (John 3:1, 2-5).

The lesson-sermon also will include the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Christian Science teaches only that which is spiritual and divine, and not human. The calm, strong currents of true spirituality, the manifestations of which are health, purity and self-experience until the beliefs of material immolation, must deepen human existence are seen to be a bald imposition, and sin, disease and death give everlasting place to the scientific demonstrations of divine Spirit and to God's spiritual, perfect man" (p. 99).

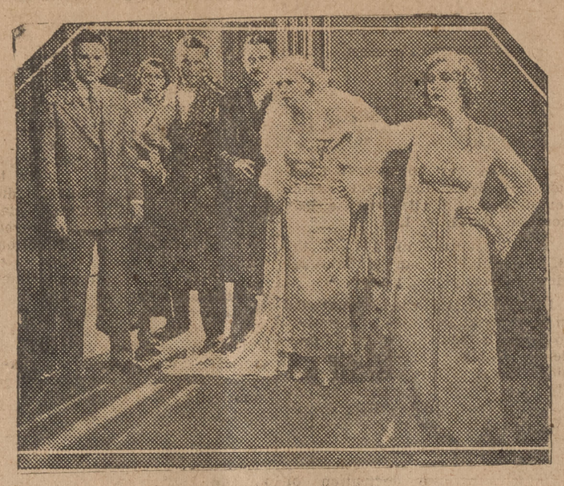
CAT CREEPS AT FOX THEATER TODAY

A breathless quality of suspense pervades "The Cat Creeps," the Universal mystery drama which opens today at the Fox-California theater. The very atmosphere is heavy with dread, and there are many hair-raising moments when the auditor feels impelled to relieve pent-up emotions with lusty shrieks. This story was adapted from the famous stage thriller, "The Cat and the Canary," and on the screen it is even more effective than it was on the stage, where it has long been recognized as one of the most spine-tingling plays ever written.

The entire story of "The Cat Creeps" is laid within a gloomy mansion which has not been occupied for twenty years, but to which a group of relatives have been summoned at midnight to listen to the reading of the will of its former eccentric owner. The sinister reputation of the house is lully borne out by the terrifying events of the night, culminating in the mysterious murder of one of the guests, and the mystery is only solved after several hours of terror.

"The Cat Creeps" may be recommended as the greatest mystery story to reach the talking screen. Undoubtedly, you will enjoy it.

The Cat Creeps



HELEN TWELVETREES, Raymond Hackett, Neil Hamilton, Lilyan Tashman and Jean Hersholt are the stars of the "Cat Creeps", which is to be shown today at the Fox-California theater.

STORY OF '49 TO BE SHOWN AT FOX

The glamorous and hectic days of the old west, in the days of gold, will live again at the Fox-California theater beginning tomorrow when the First National's new Vitaphone special, "Girl of the Golden West," opens its engagement.

This David Belasco story, set in the Sierra foothills that Belasco knew as a boy, is probably, with "The Virginian," the most widely known of all western plays.

The covered wagon days were only an interlude between the departure of the gold-maddened pioneers from their homes, and their arrival at the "diggings" in the rivers that course down through the red foothills of the Sierra Nevadas.

It was in this reckless atmosphere, where law and order were absent, that Belasco brought his "girl," and pictured her life among the wild miners, and her eventual love for one man—who wasn't worth it, but who became so through his regeneration because of her belief in him. The story is dramatic and full of thrills. Ann Harding plays the girl, while James Rennie and Harry Banister head a large cast. John Francis Dillon directed.

International Highway Links Are Surveyed

Construction of less than 1,000 miles of new highway is all that is needed for California motorists to be able to tour all the way up the Pacific coast to Fairbanks, Alaska, it was revealed during a recent visit of Major Malcolm Elliott of the engineering corps of the U. S. Army, who is president of the Alaska Road commission. The needed mileage includes approximately 225 miles from Fairbanks to the Canadian border west to Dawson, some 300 miles through Yukon territory, and 450 miles in British Columbia from the northern border down to Hazelton.

Definite plans are under way for the completion of these sections, according to reports reaching the California State Automobile association. They will all be part of the international highway which eventually will extend from Alaska to the Argentine republic.

While in California Major Elliott stated that by the time Canada completed the road through Yukon territory, it would be met at the Alaskan border with a road into Fairbanks, which is the central part of Alaska.

It is estimated that the Alaskan portion of the road will cost between two and three million dollars. Canada will have to spend approximately three million dollars in completing its section through the Yukon, and British Columbia will find it necessary to spend between four and five million dollars to build its portion of the road.

Preliminary steps have been taken by the various governments and recently a commission was appointed to investigate the proposed international highway from the northwestern part of the United States, through British Columbia, Yukon and Alaska.

Much of the preliminary work is under way. Aerial surveys were made in British Columbia last summer, and similar steps have been taken in Alaska. Interest in the proposed highway through these sections is keen among motorists, as the Yukon and Alaska afford miles of the most magnificent scenery in the world.

STOCK SWINDLE IN CHICAGO REVEALED

CHICAGO, Dec. 27.—UP— A stock swindle in which thousands of forged share certificates of Fox Film A and other large corporations have been sold to brokers and investors, was revealed today after $89,000 worth of the fake certificates were discovered in Chicago.

Stock Exchange officials and brokerage firms in Chicago, New York and other large cities were reported to have been notified of the scheme, and a nation wide checkup was started to determine the authenticity of all stocks in circulation.

Chicago brokers admitted that the swindle might have extended over the nation. Stocks of at least two corporations in addition to Fox Film were said to have been counterfeited.

Arthur Wood, president of the Chicago Stock Exchange, admitted that spurious stocks of three firms had been discovered, but he refused to reveal their identity. Neither would he divulge the amount of money represented in all of the counterfeit stocks found in circulation.

Arrest Is Made

Details of the plot were said to have been revealed with the arrest of Louis Liss of Chicago, who, assertedly, sold $25,000 worth of the counterfeit stocks to Stein, Alstrin & Co., a brokerage firm several days ago.

Forged certificates representing 2900 shares of Fox Film A and valued at $89,000 have been recovered in Chicago, it was learned today.

Chicago Stock Exchange officials pointed out that the forged stock reflect in no way on Fox Film Otto Koegle, general counsel for Fox, issued the following statement:

"The company is not concerned in the matter. We are sorry but it is none of our affair. Purchasers of the stock must protect themselves in such matters by being sure of the authenticity of shares before buying."

The forged certificates were said to be of such clever workmanship that even experienced brokers would be unable to detect them without careful scrutiny.

Trading Stopped

Trading in temporary Fox certificates was stopped on several stock exchanges yesterday. The Chicago Stock Exchange and the Association of Stock Exchanges advised their members to send in all of their stock certificates for inspection.

The temporary Fox Film A shares were issued last spring when the corporation underwent reorganization.

Brokers in Chicago regarded it as possible that so-called "bucket shops" had been organized to deal in the counterfeit shares at prices a point or two under the prevailing market level.

The stocks sold by Liss in Chicago were said to have reached a New York transfer agency before they were discovered to be forgeries. It was learned that Liss maintained an account at a downtown bank and he was arrested when he appeared to cash a check for $12,000.

Officer Hurt In Wild Ride

MARIPOSA, Dec. 27.—UP—Abner Baker, lumberman, was in the county jail on an open charge today, following a wild struggle at 50 miles an hour with Undersheriff Herbert Ellingham which terminated when Ellingham, bruised and unconscious, was thrown from Baker's automobile onto the highway.

Ellingham had gone with Sheriff John Castagnetto of Mariposa to serve a warrant upon Baker charging him with carrying concealed weapons.

Sigthing the pair, Baker jumped into his automobile and dashed down the highway. Ellingham however, catching the car as it started and crawling into the rear seat.

Unconscious, nose broken and with many body bruises, Ellingham was found several miles down the highway. When he recovered consciousness, he said that Baker had brandished a gun, but he was unable to say whether Baker slugged him or shoved him from the car.

Baker, meanwhile, had driven to Mariposa and given himself up.

New Oakland Eight and Pontiac Six

wo fine cars freshly styled for 1931 nd presenting new elements of grace, comfort and performance—the new Oakland Eight and the new Pontiac Six are making their initial bow to the American public. Base prices are lower than the minimum at which any Oakland or Pontiac previously has been introduced.

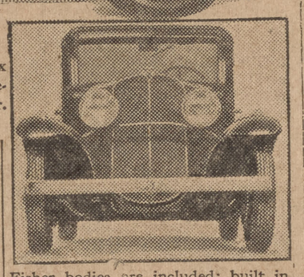
An important new development on both cars is the use of rubber insulation at more than 40 separate points, including all spring shackles, to provide multiple barriers against the "telegraphing" of road shocks or sounds of engine and chassis operation.

Oakland's outstanding improvement is found in the new Synchro-Mesh transmission which, combined with the 85 horsepower of the improved V-type engine, provides quick second gear acceleration up to 40 to 45 miles per hour. Shifting is exceptionally easy. Oakland's wheelbase is 117 inches.

The Pontiac Six wheelbase has been lengthened to 112 inches and its 60-horsepower engine carries numerous refinements including a newly designed AC air intake silencer which eliminates carburetor and manifold roar at high speeds. This feature also is provided on the Oakland engine. Both engines employ a new type of electro-plated piston.

Five wire wheels are standard equipment on all models of both lines, with wood wheels optional. Six wire wheels are obtainable at extra cost. Wheel rims are of a new semi-drop base design, enabling the tires to carry from 11 to 13 per cent more air without increasing tire size.

Six body choices are offered in each line: the two and four door sedans, custom sedan, standard and sport coupes and convertible coupe, a new type offering the advantages of both a closed coupe and an open roadster. Among external features of the new



Fisher bodies are included: built in, chrome-plated radiator screens; curved headlamp tie-bars; long hoods secured by single handle locks; one-piece full crown front fenders carrying chrome-plated indicator lamps and invisible splash control gutters; concave running board aprons continuing body contours to the aluminum-bound, rubber-covered steel running boards; full width rear splash aprons and narrow, sloping windshield pillars built integral with the cowl.

Heavy, chrome-plated, single bar bumpers are provided for all models at slight additional cost.

Texas City To Have Birthday Celebration

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Dec. 27.—UP—Three months from now, two centuries will have passed since 16 pioneer families pitched camp on the site of what is now San Antonio.

Elaborate ceremonies commemorating the 200th anniversary of the founding of the city will be held here on March 9, 1931.

The committee of 100 of the Bi-Centennial of San Antonio has virtually completed plans.

Elaborate invitations engraved in sheepskin have been forwarded to King Alfonso of Spain, President and Mrs. Pascual Ortiz Rubio of Mexico, President and Mrs. Herbert Hoover, Cardinal Patrick Joseph Hayes and the Spanish and Mexican ambassadors at Washington.

Their presence is particularly solicited for the dedication on March 4 of the old Spanish governor's palace on Military Plaza which dates back to 1794. It was acquired by the city in a decadent state from the heirs of Don Luis Menchaca and reconstructed.

From the beginning of the celebration on March 4 for six days the history of the beginning of the city's government will be depicted in a series of pageants, dramas, concerts and other varied ceremonies.

Legislatures To Aid In Employing Jobless

(Copyright 1930, by United Press)

CHICAGO, Dec. 27. —UP— Several thousand new employes will go on state payrolls with the opening of legislatures in many state capitals after the first of the year.

Jobs for clerks, pages and secretaries will be provided by the convening of law-making bodies, but a survey of legislative plans made by the United Press reveals that these positions will go only a short way toward taking up the slack in "white collar" unemployment.

Conservative estimates indicate that approximately five million dollars in salaries will be made available by the law makers. Approximately four thousand persons will be affected.

Pennsylvania Leads

The biggest estimate comes from Harrisburg, Pa., where 235 persons will be given employment by the legislative session at an estimated salary expenditure of $2,000,000.

Other state capitals reported as follows: Nebraska—The legislative program is $250,000, but must pay the salaries of 100 representatives and 63 Senators as well as the 60 extra employes.

Kansas — Two hundred fifty names, including the law makers, will be added to the state payroll at a cost of $100,000.

Colorado—Will hire 119 clerks, secretaries, pages, matrons and messengers at a total minimum cost of $44,531.

$450,000 For Iowa

Iowa—Legislative session will cost $450,000 but as most of the legislators are employed already and will bring their own secretaries, few new jobs will be created.

Wisconsin: Nearly 600 are applying for 105 jobs which the legislature will provide at an average wage of $4.50 per day.

Washington — Legislature will employ about 320 persons and release approximately $159,500 for expenses.

Connecticut—From 25 to 30 pages, messengers and attendants will be employed. New England states other than Connecticut will increase state payrolls about $4,000, giving jobs to 80 pages, 60 messengers, and 10 clerks.

Oregon—Legislature expects to employ 150 clerks, stenographers and janitors at a salary total of about $50,000.

Texas High

Texas—Solons require retinue of 240 persons at a cost of $1,300 a day.

Montana——Employs 100 clerks at wages ranging from $5 to $10 a day. Montana's is a 60 day legislative session.

Utah—Thirty three clerks will reveive $7,920 for 60 day session.

Ohio—Will employ 50 men for four months at an average salary of $125 per month.

Idaho—Sixty six clerks, $23,600.

Indiana—Eighty employes, $5,000.

New York—Between 100 and 150 clerks at $150,000.

$600,000 Session

Minnesota—Will spend approximately $200,000 for 225 employes.

North and South Dakota—Approximately 160 employes each.

California—Will provide work for 200 persons who will be paid approximately $600,000.

Oklahoma—One hundred thirty seven clerks, $50,000.

Arkansas—Fifty jobs at $125 per month each for two months.

Michigan—Ninety five employes, $98,500.

War Declared On Big Business By Truck Men, Belief

CHICAGO, Dec. 27.—With the explosion of two bombs almost simultaneously last night, war on "big business" was believed being waged by officials of the truck drivers' union.

The explosion last night brought the total of four within recent weeks. One bomb blew off the steel door of the Carson Pirie Scott & company loading entrance and damaged masonry. Three persons in a nearby apartment were slightly injured when the building was badly damaged by the blast.

A Chinese restaurant was damaged by another bomb last night. Ten persons in the establishment at the time were uninjured.

Mill Employes Firm In Strike In Old South

DANVILLE, Va., Dec. 27.—UP—Textile mill employes for whose comfort education and recreation, mill operators are spending $250,000 a year, demanded such paternalism be abolished in preference to accepting a wage cut.

That is the situation here where more than 4000 workers have been idle for almost two months from the Riverside and Dan River cotton mills.

Mill authoritiies have spent $250,000 a year in building and maintaining a fine Y. M. C. A., and other comforts and amusements.

Last January the mill management asked the employes to accept a wage cut of 10 percent. A committee of employes waited upon President and Treasurer Harry R. Fitzgerald to ask that the expensive welfare work be abolished to prevent the wage cut.

The management said the workers were ungrateful.

The workers pointed to the capital value of the company which has increased from $1,500,000 to $17,500,000 in 30 years and said they were entitled to be considered in the earnings in the same ration in which they were responsible for the company's prosperity.

So the strike continues. President Fitzgerald has refused to consider any suggestions for a conciliation conference.

FEAR FELT FOR CONDITION OF PAPA JOFFRE

during the most trying days of the World War, had been ill for some months, but his condition was not considered serious.

Operation Held

Last summer when he attended the unveiling of a memorial to himself at the scene of his military triumph, he was weak, but confident that his health was improving after a slight illness. Last Friday, however, inflamation of arteries caused his physicians to decide on an urgent operation and, at the request of the marshal, he was taken to the religious hospital just one street removed from the war ministry, where he planned the critical battle of the Marne.

Joffre said he believed the Monks at the hospital would aid him in keeping secret his serious illness.

The operation was performed and it also proved necessary to amputate the right foot. Some of the officers at Joffre's headquarters insisted that the marshal's left leg was amputated above the knee but the fact that Mme. Joffre insisted no details be revealed hindered efforts to confirm the various reports.

Has Relapse

Joffre, who was commander-in-chief of French armies during the World War, improved slightly after the operation which was itself serious for a man of 78 years. Then he suffered a sudden relapse. His condition continued serious but not critical until yesterday when he lapsed into a state of coma while the physicians were changing the dressings on his legs for the second time.

"After being in a state of coma Friday night, the marshal improved somewhat," Joffre's son-in-law M. Laffile, told the United Press after visiting the hospital.

"He regained his lucidity this morning and talked calmly to his wife, who has been almost constantly at the bedside."

Wife Is Near

Later Joffre suffered another relapse and his condition continued most serious. He lay in a small, bare room on the first floor of the hospital on the Rue Oudinot, with physicians visiting him at short intervals. Five physicians were called into the consultation.

Monks wearing the cowls of their order sat near the marshal's bed, completing the scene of monastic simplicity.

Mme. Joffre, whom the soldier divorced early in his career, after fighting a duel with another officer, but later remarried, was given a room next to that in which her husband lay.

Silent 8 Days

Mme. Joffre gave strict orders that no mention be made of the presence of the marshal at the hospital and the monks declined to admit his presence there, although the physicians who attended him confirmed Joffre's presence.

They had kept silent for eight days upon the demand of Mme Joffre but finally with the officers at the marshal's headquarters, decided it was necessary to prepare a communique for the public. It read:

"Marshal Joffre has suffered for some months from arteritis of the lower limbs, of which a sudden aggravation necessitated an urgent operation.

"After a monentary amelioration which afforded every hope, the condition of the marshal has not become disquieting. In accordance with the formal wish of the marshal, complete silence was maintained until the present in regard to his illness."

The bulletin was signed by Prof. Ernest Labbe, Prof. J. L. Faure, Prof. Leriche, Dr. Boulin and Dr. Fountaine.

The operation was performed by Prof. Leriche, aided by Prof. Labbe and Dr. Boulin.

Schools Will Teach Pupils How To Live

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27. — UP— The public schools of 2030 will teach children how to live, rather than how to make a living, United States Commissioner of Education Dr. William John Cooper predicts.

Basing his analysis on the trend of education from 1830 to 1930, Dr. Cooper forecasts what children may experience in education 100 years from now.

Speaking as a citizen living in 2030, Dr. Cooper says "now the standard of living is higher than ever dreamed by Utopian philosophers. Affairs of state are in the hands of men and women especially trained to discharge public responsibilities. Intelligence has largely displaced emotion in settling public issues."

Dr. Cooper predicts professional men and women in 2030 will be sent through a long and arduous period of training. Members of these professions, he says, will be actuated by the principle of human service, and not personal gain.

In making his predictions, Dr. Cooper looks back on education in 1830 and then discusses the education of today. From the growth it has experienced in the past hundred years, Dr. Cooper suggests it will grow to greater heights during the coming century.

WILSON BIRTH ANNIVERSARY TODAY

Woodrow Wilson, twenty-eighth president of the United States was born in Stanton, Va., 74 years ago today. Feb. 3, 1924 he died in Washington, D. C., less than three years after he had retired from his second term in the President's chair.

Years previous to Wilson's retirement from the White House, March 4, 1921 were stormy ones for the man devoted to the ideal of a united world in a League of Nations. Wilson present at the Versailles conference was instrumental in the drawing up of the peace pact which terminated a war that had torn Europe for more than four years.

The United States Senate in its failure to ratify the proposal of Wilson that the country enter the League was a severe blow to the man who had spent his entire energies in working for the consumation of the plan.

Wilson's early life was spent in Georgia and South Carolina. He entered Princeton in 1875 and graduated four years later. In 1886 he received his Ph. D. and became a member of the faculty of his Alma Mater two years later.

After 12 years on the Princeton faculty Woodrow Wilson was made president of the university which post he he'd until elected governor of New Jersey on the Democratic ticket in 1910.

During his term as president of Princeton, Woodrow Wilson displayed great interest in political matters and had many plans for the betterment of college life.

In the three cornered race for president in 1912, Woodrow Wilson was victorious and was sworn into the highest office of the land Mar. 4, 1913.

His policies during his first term in office were sufficiently satisfactory to the American public to warrant his re-election in 1916.

Woodrow Wilson's skillufl political maneuvering had kept the United States out of the European struggle, but during his second term, affairs became so serious that he asked the Congress to declare war on Germany April 2, 1917. War was declared April 7, and the struggle became world wide.

At the war's conclusion Woodrow Wilson and his corps of advisors sailed for France on the George Washington, Dec. 4, 1918, where he remained until the final drafting of the treaty. His return to this country was met by hostile opposition to his peace plan.

His work in that cause did not go unrewarded however, for he was named for the Nobel peace prize award in 1920. Following his retirement from political office Woodrow Wilson spent a quiet life, refraining even from political comment.

His last public appearance was on Armistice day, 1923, when he greeted his admirers with a short speech from the porch of his home. He died in his sleep the following February.

Business Will Be Better in 1931

If historical precedent counts for anything, the present business depression has about run its course.

The business index, which is made up of national figures dealing with production and consumption of the fundamentals upon which business foundations must rest, now stands at about the point where the tide turned in the depression of 1907-8. The only lower point which we have touched since 1885 was in 1894, and that low point was brought about by the national railroad strike which followed the depression of 1893.

Business analysis judging the future by the past say we are now virtually on the bottom, that the low point will be maintained for a short period, and that revival on a substantial scale will then set in.

Prosperity will come in 1931 to those individuals, business firms and communities that are aggresively determined to get their share. In the case of communities, that result can only be achieved through community cooperation and this in turn is only possible by making full use of the facilities afforded by the Chamber of Commerce.

WHAT A MAN DOES FOR HIMSELF DIES WITH HIM. WHAT A MAN DOES FOR HIS CITY LIVES FOREVER.

We can only help ourselves by advancing the interests of the community which affords us a livelihood. If we go forward in 1931 in our business and professional life it will be because the city of Richmond goes forward.

THE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE RENEWS ITS PLEDGE TO WORK FOR THE ADVANCEMENT OF THE CITY AND TO CONTINUE ITS FORMER POLICY OF SPECIALIZING IN BRINGING IN NEW INDUSTRIES. TO BE SUCCESSFUL IT MUST HAVE YOUR SUPPORT

LINES ON A MUSIC BOX

(An old Christmas gift)

"Schlaf, Kindchen, schlaf"—
The tinkling chimes ring out
As sweetly as they did that yesteryear
When first the miracle of bells was wroug
For the enchantment of a childish ear.
"Dein Vater ist ein Graf"—
Recall the joy
With which the eager fingers once explored
The carven surface of that magic toy,
Until they grasped the handle, turned it 'round,
And summoned forth a gay cascade of sound.
"Deine Mutter ist ein' Edelfrau,
Schlaf, Kindchen, schlaf"—
Even in sleep the chubby fingers clasped
The wondrous box. Sweet be thy dreams,
O child of days gone by!
"Schlaf, Kindchen, schlaf."

Why Aren't There More Like Mrs. Einstein?

MAYBE we're a hopeless sentimentalist, but nothing in the newspapers recently
Has so touched and pleased us as the stories
About the wife of Einstein, the great German scientist and philosopher.
Even if we cannot—along with most of the rest of humanity—understand the doctrine of relativity,
We are perfectly certain that its discoverer is a great man.
Because, first of all, he has convinced his wife of the fact!
All the stories agree on her happy attitude of hero-worship
Toward her little, gray-haired, elderly husband.
George Witte described in The Evening World his visit to the pair—
How, at home, Mrs. Einstein acts as the great man's secretary and manager,
How she carefully scrutinizes and measures the visitors
Before she allows one of them to penetrate to her husband's presence—
How she is the buffer that protects him against curiosity and vulgarity—
And how she loves to talk about him—
Not merely about his extraordinary mind, but about his looks!
"Hasn't he a wonderful head?" she asks, in hushed tones,
Almost as soon as the scientist appears.
Nor does she embarrass him by such a charmingly spontaneous tribute,
For Mr. Witte adds an illuminating touch to the Einstein picture—
"When he talks he has an absent-minded look about him,
"As if only a small part of his mind were on the subject;
"His wife's frequent asides in an ordinary tone of voice
"Entirely escape his attention."
There you are—of all absent-minded Teutonic professors,
Einstein probably walks off with the championship.
Mr. Witte admits that, when it comes to clothes,
Einstein—whom Bernard Shaw calls one of the eight greatest men in the world's history—
Would go about in shiny coats and baggy trousers, entirely oblivious of his appearance—
If it were not for his wife.
We're almost certain that, when he's working out a theory on space and time,
He forgets the space between himself and the dining room
And the time when dinner is ready—
Unless his wife takes him gently by the elbow and leads him to the table.
He probably forgets to take an umbrella when it rains,
Or even to take a taxicab.
If he ever goes to the theater, or to concerts,
He doubtless leaves the tickets on the living room mantel, or in his other suit,
If Mrs. Einstein doesn't make sure that they are in the pocket of his evening clothes—
And that HE is in the evening clothes!
As for that violin of his, how many times do you suppose he lays it down
And walks off, in a brown study, and forgets completely where he left it?
To be sure, he seems to be a nice, quiet, home-staying husband,
Who would rather play the violin himself
Than listen to jazz music in a night club;
He is usually in bed before midnight, Mr. Witte tells us;
He much prefers his home to any other spot,
And, since he chooses the seclusion of his study, instead of going places and doing things,
The result is that his wife must usually know where to find him—
A comfort, as any wife will admit.
Nevertheless, with all his good points, he would be pretty trying to lots of wives.
And we think the way in which Mrs. Einstein mothers him, shields him, admires him,
Is wholly delightful and charming—
Why can't more wives, besides loving their husbands, believe in their greatness?
If wives did, there might be more husbands who would be great!

COMMANDMENTS OF A FEMINIST

(FOR "HIM")

She has a determined sense of privacy which she guards jealously. Do not violate it. Restrain your emotions in public, or when anyone else is present.

Forget not that Feminism is her religion. Therefore, refrain from holding her arm while crossing streets.

Remember that physical superiority does not indicate social superiority, and that she refuses to be treated as a child. Therefore, avoid adopting a protective attitude toward her, but in all things treat her as an equal, which she is.

Avoid being sentimental. It happens that she has a strong sense of the ridiculous.

Remember that she possesses a mind as well as a body. Therefore passion does not consume her to the exclusion of all else.

Above all, she is not a chattel. She belongs to no one but herself. Do not regard her as a possession.

BETTY, VIA "HIM."

Don't Cultivate a Grouch

VAIN regrets have put more wrinkles into women's faces and more furrows into men's foreheads than real sorrow and trouble have. Crying over spilled milk, ressurrecting the dead past—regretting—it's an insidiously poisonous habit that eats into health and well-being like a disease. Unfortunately, it is the sensitive persons and the most conscientious who suffer most from it. They twist and turn the question over and over in their minds, wondering whether what they did or said was the right thing, whether it could have been improved upon and so on. It's so futile. Beyond giving reasonable thought and honest unbiased consideration to a problem that besets one, what more could one ask of one's self? Having settled it, turn your back upon it and look ahead. Many a regretted action has turned out to be a blessing, and, if it hasn't, having acted according to your light, regard it as a part of the big game and go right on playing, without any more let-up of interest than you feel when an opponent takes a trick from you at bridge.

And this is as good a time as any to resolve never to carry around a chip on your shoulder. It's a small habit that begets large results. A good open quarrel is sometimes a necessary sequence of things, but a grouch, never. Take it out into the open and the chances are it will vanish into thin air. Learn to step on the big stones in crossing your rivers, ignoring the little ones. As some one has said, take life as a whole, not in detached episodes and experiences.

With prices of meat in the wholesale market reaching the lowest level in years, even the most economical of housewives finds a wide range of choice when she goes to market. In a few neighborhoods where competition is not keen, butchers are not reducing their retail prices as much as they should, but in the chain-store markets and the larger uptown neighborhood meat markets, meats are being offered at only a slight margin of profit. It is well to compare prices of your local stores before buying.

KAREN HOLLIS

An economical and seasonable meat for winter dinners is pork, and a delicious way of serving pork chops is to stuff them with savory dressing and serve them with tomato sauce. This requires a little longer than broiling or frying them, but the result is well worth the extra trouble.

STUFFED BAKED PORK CHOPS

4 loin pork chops
1½ cups stale bread, crumbled
3 tablespoons melted butter
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon grated onion
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
4 tablespoons tomato catsup
1 cup water

Have the butcher slit the edges of the chops to make pockets for stuffing. Wipe them with a damp cloth and rub with salt and pepper, then fill with stuffing. Mix stale bread crumbs, melted butter, salt, onion juice and Worcestershire and press firmly into the chops. A little minced parsley may be added to the stuffing, or one-half cup of finely-minced cooked mushrooms may be substituted for one-half cup of bread crumbs.

Place the chops in a skillet and brown them quickly on both sides. Remove to a baking dish and pour over them about one-half cup of tomato catsup mixed with water. Use the remainder of the catsup and water to baste them with during cooking. Bake in a moderate oven for about forty-five minutes, or until very tender. Pour the sauce which remains in the baking dish over the chops when serving.

Stitched Starched Hats With a Flop and a Flare

HAT OF LOOSELY WOVEN STRAW AND ONE OF STITCHED LINEN

By Ann Roberts

Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1930

AS YOU begin to see the new hats exhibited for southern wear you will be bound to think them made from some newly discovered rare and exotic material. They look so different, so glistening and so new.

Well, here's a little secret—they're merely starched—big ones, little ones, turbans, tiny brims—all starched and mostly with linen as their foundation fabric. Now, what do you think of that? A new idea and then some. A trick that looks at first glance like some marvelous and secret process when all the time it is merely grandmother's starching decade come into its own again.

They have a delicacy and crispness never before conceived of. They look like some very fine and dainty sort of straw when all the time they are purely and simply linen or some other fabric very much of that sort.

And, if they wilt, as goodness knows they will in wet weather, then simply starch them again, iron them out and you have their pristine freshness reinstated.

Their Clever Shapes

THERE are brims all the way from two inches in width to those that are very much wider. The narrow ones turn up over one eye, as do those of a trifle more of width, while the wider ones keep a drooping line, now stiff and now flopping just a bit to give that careless, thoughtless line that is so vastly becoming. Let's all join together now in praise that it has come back again.

Of course the narrow brims go with the more tailored of the linen sports costumes and as the dresscs become, by stages, more formal, the brims grow apace. The sheer batiste afternoon frocks take the very widest brims and the more tailored or street things those brims that have a middle distance width about them.

All crowns are shallow—all faces show plainly—all headdresses are softly arranged around the face so that nothing in the way of a summer hat need be unbecoming or harsh. In fact not one iota of charm is sacrificed for smartness.

Hints for Wearing

WITH the simple little linen frocks, of which there will be more and many, these hats of stitched linen are perfect. You can match them up exactly if you wish, having the same material in the hat and dress. Or, if your dress is made from one color, piped or bound with another shade, then you can match up your hat to the trimming color with awfully good effect.

Now if you are wearing a black and white costume, for instance—a white dress with a black coat—then you will want a printed and starched linen hat—one with gray and white spots of varying sizes all over it. That is a smart enough idea to carry you well into a southern social success.

If you are having a brown linen suit with yellow trimming (this is a very new and lovely color combination) then have a brown linen hat with a bit of yellow trimming to carry out the scheme.

As to Trimming

AS I said before, all hats have a tendency to poke up over one eye and there, at that point, you will often find a bit of trimming—only a bit. On the hats of angora straw there will be posed at that place two little nubbly angora flowers of the same or contrasting color.

Some of the stitched hats are stitched in a pattern over the crown and falling down onto the brim, the stitching growing wider as it goes down. You see it all verges into a point at the top of the crown and comes out over the brim in wider triangles.

A white linen hat is stitched in dark blue so that the stitching stands out as a decoration and then there is a bright red ribbon tied about the crown, making a very smartly arranged color combination.

Draped linen turbans, most particularly and beautifully shaped for wear with the more formal suits, are trimmed with grosgrain ribbons wound into their drapings.

Other Hat Fabrics

YOU will run upon starched hats of fine pique rivaling the linen ones in their beauty of texture and crispness. I hope you will like these stitched, starched things as much as I do.

You will find hats of rough straw very loosely woven and very lacquered looking—shiny and bright with dull velvet and grosgrain trimmings in the same color. They are lovely in white trimmed with white velvet ribbon.

But the natural straw color is perhaps the best of all. It goes with everything and if you're not out to buy a large collection of hats to begin the season, then the natural tones are your best bet.

Cotton repette is another hat fabric. It looks like an exaggerated canvas, loosely woven and very stiff.

Panamas will be even more popular than they were last year. And, if you are looking about for one hat that will do for almost everything, then this sort is the one to choose—satisfactory in the extreme when it is passed about from dress to dress and suit to suit.

Keeping Furniture Bright

FURNITURE requires an occasional washing. Many housewives are too liberal in the use of polish and this filmy layer of polish gathers dust that sticks.

To wash the furniture make a lukewarm suds of soft water and good, pure soap. With a soft piece of cheesecloth wash all the woodwork. You will be surprised at the dirt you get off. Wring another piece of cheesecloth out of hot water and pour a tablespoonful of good polish on it. The heat will spread the polish through the cloth. Rub the furniture with this, then go over it with a clean cloth.

That is ample polish to use. You will be surprised at the improved appearance of your furniture.

A Hair Treatment Kit

ONE of the hair treatment specialists is offering a kit made up of a waving lotion, a handy atomizer for spraying the hair, an imported brush and a glass treatment bowl. The kit is an ideal Christmas gift to one who would develop a different and permanent wave to her hair. It is even a good gift to oneself. The kit is for sale in leading department stores.

You and Your Child

Suffering Through One's Own Mistakes

"PUT on your mittens," said mother. "I don't need any," answered little daughter. Then followed urging, scolding, threatening and finally punishment. And a most rebellious sorry-for-herself child went out of the house with her mittens on.

How much simpler it would have been to have allowed the little girl to have her own way, thereby learning through her own experience, getting cold hands, that mother was usually right and it paid to heed her advice, and also that in cold weather it is advisable to wear gloves.

It is much better for us to allow a child to suffer the natural consequences of his conduct than to inflict punishment. When a young one suffers through his own mistakes he knows that he has brought this punishment upon himself, and therefore he accepts it stoically, realizing that it is fair and just, and he usually learns through the experience. In such a case, no resentment against a "punisher" enters into the situation to befog the issue.

Often, however, parents interfere with this natural law, saying, "Oh, poor thing. I can't let him take his medicine. I feel sorry for him." And, a little later, these same parents, becoming excited about some trifling misdemeanor, hastily mete out a punishment. It goes without saying that to allow children to learn through their own experience, and to refrain from impulsive punishments, require a great deal of self control on our part.

If the toy which a child loses or breaks through carelessness is not replaced for quite some time, the youngster will learn through this experience. He may, like most of us, need to have several such experiences before he thoroughly learns his lesson. If the child who has spent all his allowance has to go without spending money until the time comes for his next installment, he will gradually learn that "you can't eat your cake and have it, too." Likewise, when a youngster is late for an appointment, he should be allowed to suffer whatever natural penalty his tardiness brings upon him.

There are two factors that prevent this method from always being "workable." Sometimes the natural results of a child's act would be entirely too serious. We can't, for instance, allow our young one to go outdoors without his overcoat on a cold day, because the consequence might be pneumonia. On the other hand, a very naughty deed often incurs no natural penalty whatsoever, as when a child eats a whole box of forbidden candy without even getting a stomach ache. There are innumerable occasions, however, when allowing a child to suffer the natural consequences of his misdeed, is the very best of lessons.

Household Hints

Before painting old furniture either use a good varnish remover or smooth down rough places and with a cloth moistened in wood alcohol, go over the entire surface. Let it stand twenty-four hours then wipe off. The alcohol softens the old finish and gives the new paint a better chance to stick.

Rose and bisque is a popular combination in the color scheme of kitchenettes, and these tones are available in enamel ware.

THE ROYAL OLD CLOTHES

THE Prince of Wales, according to a London dispatch, tosses clothing into the discard if he has a touch of tough luck while wearing them. For instance, if the prince gets off a bum after-dinner speech, he throws away the dinner suit he had on. If he tops a drive at the seventeenth hole, ten minutes later the golf suit goes into the ash can. This custom is not followed by any of the prince's subjects, however, with the possible exception of those who live in the African jungles.

It must be nice to blame everything on to your suit. But we don't see why H. R. H. doesn't just take it out on his valet and save tailors' bills. Or maybe Wales instituted the custom to see if he couldn't get Queen Mary to do the same thing with her hats.

We can just picture the scene in the Prince's boudoir after a day when everything seemed to go wrong.

PRINCE—Jeeves, I've had a rotten day of it. Bring in nine large wastebaskets and two ashcans.

VALET—You're going to discard some unlucky clothes, Your Royal Highness?

PRINCE—I certainly am! And while you're about it, you might advise the Salvation Army to lease an extra wing. I'm going to get rid of a lot of them, believe me.

VALET—Very well, sir. What shall be first?

PRINCE—Well, let's see. I was laying a cornerstone at Northumberland this morning and stuck the trowel in the chairman's eye. So out goes that morning suit.

VALET—Very good, Your Royal Highness.

PRINCE—But take the suspenders off first. I'm not blaming it on them.

VALET—As you will, sir.

PRINCE—Then I tripped over my sword reviewing the Scottish Fusiliers, so put that honorary colonel's uniform in the ashcan too.

VALET—It's done, sir.

PRINCE—And maybe I'm not glad to get rid of that Scottish Fusiliers layout. Those kilts not only showed up my knobby knees, but I was chilled to the thighs.

VALET—Yes, Your Highness.

PRINCE—At lunch today I spilled a spoonful of sherbet on my fawn-colored waistcoat. You can dump it in the alley instead of sending it to the cleanser's.

VALE—Very good, sir. Now is there anything else?

PRINCE—I told you I had a perfectly rotten day of it, Jeeves. We've got loads of suits to throw away yet.

VALET—What next, Your Royal Highness?

PRINCE—Well, I busted the lens of my binoculars reviewing the fleet, so my admiral's uniform goes out, too.

VALET—You mean your rear admiral's or your vice admiral's suit, Your Highness?

PRINCE—You should remember, Jeeves—you put them on. I forget.

VALET—I believe you reviewed the fleet as a vice admiral, Your Highness.

PRINCE—Then ditch the vice admiral's suit. But wait! You'd better clip off the braid and epaulets first. They'll help out the country's gold reserve.

VALET—Always economizing, Your Highness. Now what else?

PRINCE—Jeeves, I bungled an after-dinner speech again so throw my new dress clothes away. Also the studs and cuff links! And while you're about it, clear out my maharajah's costume, the honorary boy scout's suit, that Hindu turban, my polo togs, my viceroy's uniform and my royal pajamas.

VALET—Surely you didn't have so much hard luck as that!

PRINCE—Well, no. But get rid of them anyway. I wouldn't give that much satisfaction to the moths.

THIS AND THAT

The reds are making progress among the Chinese. But it's still quite a trick to get them to beat those flatirons into swords.

A Middle Western railroad was sold at auction for $23,000,000 in two minutes. In New York it takes twenty years for a closing-out auction sale to sell a few gross of watches.

FORD SHOW TO OPEN HERE MONDAY

How precision in the manufacture of the Ford car and truck is made possible by quantity production is graphically illustrated by a sound motion picture and a number of special exhibits on display in a Ford show to be held Dec. 29, 30, 31 in a large tent on Twenty-third street between Barrett and Roosevelt. The show, arranged by David M. Rose local dealer, in cooperation with the San Francisco branch of the Ford Motor company, will continue through Wednesday and will be open to the public free of charge from 10 a. m. to 10 p. m. each day.

The motion picture depicts the manufacture of the Ford from the production of raw materials until the car is driven off the assembly line to join its innumerable predecessors in the traffic of the world.

The out of town dealers participating in the show are: A. F. Arata, Crockett; M. G. Moitoza, San Pablo; Greathouse & Pruitt, El Cerrito; Brooks Motor Co., Albany.

Supplementing it, the special displays arranged about the tent reveal in detail the infinite precision which has resulted from quantity production and which in turn has made quantity production possible. So close are the limits of measurement maintained that in many instances one part will not vary from another more than a tenth of a thousandth part of an inch. A part could be taken from the display board and fitted into any one of a million Fords and it would fit.

Of special interest is a display of Johansson gage blacks, little oblong pieces of shiny metal are used for checking the gages in the Ford plants. These blocks are manufactured by the Ford Motor company and are made true to exact measurement within two millionths part of an inch.

Another interesting display is that of rustless steel parts showing step by step how they are formed and polished. Still another is a Triplex glass windshield, which, though cracked by a heavy blow, refused to shatter. Of special interest to women visitors are samples of the various cloths used in Ford upholstery.

Displays also include a board showing the stages in the manufacture of the crankshaft and camshaft, a steel-spoke wheel showing its one-piece construction, numerous ball bearings, forgings, shock absorbers, standard accessories, and many other parts.

Unusually interesting are a Tudor cut in half to reveal the details of its construction and—a truck chassis with portions cut away to disclose its working parts.

The cars alone, however, are well worth a visit to the show for they include body types to suit any taste and to meet any occasion. Particularly attractive are the de luxe cars in which the upholstery and appointments are of a kind and quality usually found only in more expensive automobiles.

All the body types are featured by the Ford's new beauty of line and color. The deep radiator, the wide generous fenders, and the graceful sweeping lines of the bodies all contribute to a pleasing whole. The cars may be obtained in a variety of colors and combinations which, with the wide choice of body types, enables the owner to reflect his own individuality in his car.

For those interested in trucks, the improved chassis with portions cut away to disclose the construction and mechanism of the four-speed transmission, rear axle assembly and brakes is an interesting demonstration. The Model AA truck may be obtained with a wheel base of either 131½ inches or 157 inches, with a wide variety of body types to meet almost every hauling requirement.

Giant Press Shapes Ford Fenders

NUTT DEMANDS NYE APOLOGY ON CHARGES

ginia National committeeman, was given $4,000. Harold P. Fabin, Utah National committeeman received $2,000. E. B. Clements, Missouri National committeeman, received $6,000.

New Report

West Virginia got $2,000 through D. W. Cork, manager of the campaign in the Third Congressional district and $1,500 went to Kansas through National Committeeman David W. Mulvane.

Nutt said all disbursements but $2,000 had been reported and were on file at the capitol and that the latter would be reported Jan. 1. He asserted Nye should have inquired for the filed information before drawing any conclusions regarding the purpose of the fund.

In the accounting, the Republican treasurer made no reference to the $4,000 note negotiated by Lucas and guaranteed by an equal sum set aside from the special account. Explaining why the account was established, Nutt said.

Has Checks

"It was merely for book keeping convenience that a special campaign fund was set up. Every dollar was expended by check; every dollar has been accounted for, and I have in my possession all the cancelled checks.

"In view of these facts, which were readily ascertainable by Senator Nye at the time he made his statement that this was 'slush fund' I think the Senator owes it to himself, to the Senate of the United States, which he represents and to the Republican National committee and its officers, to make a public apology for his unwarranted charges."

The controversy thus developed in its latest aspect by Nutt had raised for a few days in Washington a remote possibility of a third party split. Lucas' persistent demands for Norris' withdrawal from the Republican party prompted Professor John Dewey of Columbia University, to propose that the Nebraskan leave the party to head a liberal party movement.

Refuses Offer

Norris' emphatic refusal is believed to have ended third party prospects.

Western insurgents, however, are dissatisfied with President Hoover's economic leadership. They disagree with him on hydro-electric power questions, on taxation, farm relief and other contraversial subjects. It is apparent now that they will attempt to prevent his renomination.

Norris and perhaps others may refuse to support Hoover if his nomination is obtained.

UNIFORM AUTO LAWS AIM OF MEETING

Agreement upon several important features of motor vehicle legislation in which uniformity is to be sought among the Pacific coast states has been reached by the officials who took part in the recent conference in San Francisco. The gathering assembled at the invitation of Percy E. Towne, chairman of the motor vehicle conference of California. In attendance were government officials of the various states and representatives of the California State Automobile association and organized motorists throughout the coast region.

The purpose of the discussion was to arrive at an understanding regarding changes in motor vehicle laws to be proposed to the state legislatures with the object of eliminating conflicting regulations. The conference took up rules of the road, speed limits, arm signals, reciprocal regulations in the issuance of non-resident permits to pleasure cars and commercial vehicles, and other related subjects.

It was decided to organize a permanent Pacific States Motor Vehicle conference to carry on the effort toward uniformity. In opening the conference Chairman Towne stated that variations in the laws now cause a great deal of difficulty and inconvenience to motorists passing from one state to another.

Approval was voted to that portion of the uniform traffic act adopted by the national conference on street and highway safety regulating the speed of motor vehicles to the basic rule of prudent and safe operation under existing conditions. The act adopted by the national conference retains "indicated" speed limits up to forty-five miles an hour. It provides, however, that a motorist arrested for exceeding the limit is not conclusively guilty, but may introduce evidence showing that he was not in fact driving in a dangerous manner.

The delegates unanimously approved the policy that pleasure automobiles should be given non-resident permits for the entire period covered by the license issued in the home state, instead of the limited permits now granted.

TRAPPED THIEF KILLS SELF

GARY, Ind., Dec. 27.—UP—Trapped in a store, which he attempted to rob to obtain money for his impending wedding, Leon Rowell, 25, said by police to be a minor hoodlum, committed suicide rather than be captured alive.

The suicide occurred yesterday in a clothing store where Rowell had purchased some articles. As David Weiner, one of the proprietors, started to wrap the parcel, Rowell flourished a gun and obtained $9 from the cash register.

Weiner was then commanded to walk to the front door of the establishment. As the merchant neared the opening, he dashed outside calling for aid.

A crowd gathered at the door. Rowell ran to the rear of the store. Finding no means of escape, Rowell shot himself in the temple, dying two hours later.

The body was identified as that of Rowell by a letter found in his coat pocket addressed to him, and signed by Miss Anna Meichen of Newport, Ind., which said that thea young woman would arrive here in a few days for the wedding.
